Eden Valley Riesling 2002, South Australia

Is a collaboration between two Australian winemakers famed for their Rieslings, Jeffrey Grosset and Robert Hill Smith, of Yalumba. Compared with the lively Marlborough wines, this, from the elevated Eden Valley above the Barossa, is bigger and broader but still with appealing fruit and firm acidity on the finish. It's infanticide to drink this so early as it will develop wonderful lime and buttered toast complexities over a few years as most good Clare and Eden Valley Rieslings do.
